DETAILED ACTION

Oath/Declaration

1. The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because: It does not identify the citizenship of each inventor.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they include the following reference character(s) not mentioned in the description: Both figure 3 and 4 reference a value of 6.1%. There is no reference to this value in the specification. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d), or amendment to the specification to add the reference character(s) in the description in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(b) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

5. Claim 1 recites the limitation "the bonds" in line 4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gin (October 22, 2002) in view of Dwin (US 20040030638 A1).

8. Regarding claim 1, Gin teaches a method of restructuring a debt instrument without retiring the underlying debt (pg. 1-2). Gin teaches amending a debt instrument to call for purchase of the bonds in lieu of redemption (pg. 1-2). Gin does not teach reselling the bonds to a financial institution. However, Dwin teaches purchasing the bonds for resale to a financial institution pursuant to a purchase agreement (§ 2-55). Gin teaches the specifics of calling a bond. Dwin teaches conducting loan repurchase transactions. Though a bank loan is not specifically a "security" a bond in finance is a loan contract issued by local, state, and national governments and private corporations specifying an obligation to return borrowed funds. In this context a bond is a type of a loan contract. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Gin to include the details of reselling the bonds to a financial institution because reselling a bond is done in order to receive the cash value of the income stream in the current time frame. One would get the cash value up front. If you hold a bond to maturity (when it becomes due), you know how much you'll get back-the face value or "par value." But if you sell your bond in the secondary bond market before it matures, you may get a far different amount. If, for example, interest rates have risen since you purchased the bond, you may have to sell at a discount below par and lose money. But if interest rates have fallen, you may be able to sell at a premium above par. If you want to sell your bond before it matures, you may have to pay a commission for the transaction or your broker may take a "markdown." A markdown is an amount-usually a percentage-by which your broker reduces the sales price to cover the cost of the transaction.
